

TSYS School of Computer Science Graduate Academic Scholarship

The TSYS School of Computer Science at Columbus state University Offers two scholarships each year to graduate students applying for admission to the Master's program in Applied Computer Science or Cybersecurity Management. The award is $2,500 per semester for a maximum of two semesters. Award notification will be announced at the end of June. Questions should be directed to the Graduate Assistantship and Scholarship Committee Chair (CS@ColumbusState.edu).

Eligibility requirements:

- Acceptance as a Master's student in Applied Computer Science or Cybersecurity Management in the TSYS School of Computer Science
- A minimum undergraduate GPA of 3.25 or a minimum GRE score of 300

Requirements for maintaining the scholarship for the subsequent semester:

- Enrollment as a full time graduate student in the TSYS School of Computer Science
- A minimum overall GPA of 3.3 in graduate coursework with a grade of 'B' or higher in each course completed at CSU since receiving the scholarship award

Policies:

- Students, who formally withdraw or reduce their course load during the semester the scholarship is awarded, will be expected to repay the award. Failure to repay the award will result in "unfavorable standing" at CSU.
- Academic performance will be reviewed at the end of the semester to verify continuing eligibility.
- The TSYS School of Computer Science reserves the right to cancel a scholarship award for conduct inconsistent with the goals of the school, including non-academic issues.
- If the award is cancelled because of failure to meet the requirements for maintaining the scholarship as listed above, the recipient may reapply for the scholarship the following semester.

How to apply:

Complete the application form and submit a printed copy to the School of Computer Science by the application deadline for the fall semester admission to the Master's program, regardless of the student's starting semester. A scanned copy of the application can be emailed with the subject line: Application for Graduate Scholarship, to CS@ColumbusState.edu.
